Introduction

Pablo Picasso

Pablo Picasso (full name: Pablo Diego José Francisco de Paula Juan Nepomuceno María de los Remedios Cipriani de la Santísima Trinidad Ruiz y Picasso) was a Spanish artist born on October 25, 1881, and he died on April 8, 1973. He was a painter, sculptor, printmaker, ceramic artist, and theatre designer who lived most of his life in France.

Picasso is considered one of the most important artists of the 20th century. He helped create Cubism, a new way of showing objects from different angles at the same time. He also helped invent collage and constructed sculpture, and he used many different styles in his work.

Two of his most famous paintings are:

- Les Femmes d'Alger (1907) – one of the first Cubist paintings.
- Guernica (1937) – a powerful painting showing the horrors of war, based on the bombing of the town Guernica during the Spanish Civil War

Guernica - Guernica

Guernica is a large oil painting made in 1937 by Spanish artist Pablo Picasso. It is one of his most famous works and is often called the most powerful anti-war painting ever made. Today, it is displayed in the Museo Reina Sofía in Madrid, Spain.

The painting is done in grey, black, and white. It is very big—about 3.5 meters tall and 7.8 meters wide. It shows the pain and destruction caused by war and violence. In the painting, you can see:

- a wounded horse,
- a bull,

- screaming women,
- a dead baby
- a broken soldier, and
- flames

Les Femmes d'Alger (O. J. Version O)

Les Femmes d'Alger (O. J. Version O) (The Young Ladies of Avignon, originally called The Brothel of Avignon) is a large oil painting made in 1907 by Spanish artist Pablo Picasso. It is now part of the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

The painting shows five nude women, who are prostitutes in a brothel on a street in Barcelona, Spain. Their bodies are painted with sharp, angular shapes, not in a soft or traditional way. Some of them look a bit scary or intense.

- The woman on the far left has a face and clothes that look like Egyptian or South Asian style.
- The next two women look like they are in the Iberian (Spanish) style.
- The two on the right have faces like African masks.

Picasso said the African-style masks inspired him to create a new and powerful art style, almost like a spiritual or magical expression
